Hope in the Waiting

Isaiah 40:31 | A promise that those who wait on the Lord will find their strength renewed, even when the road ahead feels long.

Waiting for a job callback, medical news, housing, or a family breakthrough can be exhausting. When nothing seems to be moving, it is easy to wonder if God has forgotten you. You do not have to carry the outcome to be faithful today.

Three anchors for a long week

Choose when to check for news

If the situation allows, pick one or two times to check for updates. You do not have to refresh all day.

Protect your daily rhythm

Keep eating, resting, and returning to simple routines even while the answer is still pending.

Let someone wait with you

Tell a trusted friend what you're waiting for. Ask them to check in or pray with you.

What I can do today	What I can leave in God's hands
Make a call, rest, or ask a friend for support.	The timing, a decision, or the final outcome.

Closing prayer

Lord, waiting stretches me thin, and I am tired of not knowing how this will turn out. Renew my strength right where I am. Help me do the small, faithful things in front of me today, and give me peace to trust You with the timing I cannot see. Amen.
